Fittingly, sun shines on Class of 2012 for graduation

By Wendy Keeler

Cape Elizabeth High School Principal Jeff Shedd must have put in an order to the weather gods for June 10, the day of Cape Elizabeth High School's Class of 2012 graduation ceremony at Fort Williams. The weather that day, fair with temperatures in the 70s, seemed to exemplify the sunny character that Shedd brought to light in his graduation address.

"We all have heard and read that it is the soft skills – having the right attitude, the ability to communicate with others, the ability to work together as part of a team – which employers so desire and they too often do not find in new employees. It is those skills summed up in many elementary report cards with the phrase 'plays well with others.' Class of 2012, I salute you and congratulate you for that trait," Shedd told the graduating seniors. "It's a trait that will take you far and has made your class so fun to get to know and work with."

Shedd enumerated the fruits of class members' cooperative spirit. This school year, in addition to winning the Northern New England Science Bowl, the North Shore Science League, and state titles in speech and mock trial, and competing their way to regional playoffs, class members shone just as brightly in other places, even the blacktop.

"It was in the fall, in the stands, in the parking lot with the tailgate gatherings where the

Council sets library vote wording, hearing on automatic citizen votes

By Bob Dodd

The wording for the Nov. 6 referendum on the proposed new library project has been finalized. Registered voters in Cape Elizabeth will have the opportunity to vote yes or no on the question:

"Shall the Town of Cape Elizabeth borrow up to $6.0 million to fund a new Thomas Memorial Library and accept private donations to assist with the project?"

At its June 11 meeting, the Town Council also scheduled a public hearing on the related issue of making citizen votes mandatory on most single capital expenditures exceeding $1 million. The hearing is set for 7 p.m. July 9 at Town Hall.

Councilors revised the original proposed referendum wording to clarify anticipated questions and concerns regarding the library.

The project was originally referred to in the wording as the "new Thomas Memorial Library and Cultural Center." Councilor Frank Governali questioned the cost of the project and the need for a cultural center to be attached to the new library.

Council chair Sara Lennon asked if the title Cultural Center was needed. Councilor David Sherman asked that it be deleted.

"A library is a cultural center by definition," said Sherman. He felt including it in the title might be confusing and a deterrent to support from the voters.

Town Manager Mike McGovern explained that the title of Cultural Center came as a result of initial public feedback on the library project. He agreed that the term was confusing.

"We are really only talking about programming and meeting space within the library," McGovern explained.

Voters decisively pass school budget; choose Millett, Summers, Dill

By Patricia McCarthy

Cape Elizabeth voters approved a $21.8 million school budget and Democrats picked Rebecca Millett as their nominee for state Senate District 7 during the June 12 primary.

Voters also backed state Sen. Cynthia Dill, D-Cape Elizabeth, and Secretary of State Charlie Summers, as the Republican and Democratic nominees, respectively, for the U.S. Senate. Both also won statewide.

The only race where Cape voters failed to back an overall winner was in the Republican primary for the U.S. House in District 1. In that race, Cape GOP voters sided with Patrick Calder against state Sen. Jon Courtney, R-Springvale. Courtney, the state Senate majority leader, won by a narrow margin district-wide and will face incumbent Rep. Chellie Pingree, D-Maine, this fall.

The school budget passed easily, 1,323 to 518. In a non-binding advisory question, 950 said they found the budget acceptable, 603 said it was too much and 192 said it was too low.

Millett, a former member of the Cape Elizabeth School Board, carried the town 737-214 over Bryan Kaenrath for the Democratic nomination for state Senate District 7. Millett also won overall in the district, which

Hasson to return to Cape as principal; Two more school administrators hired

By Wendy Keeler

While Cape Elizabeth students enjoy time off this summer, three new school administrators will be doing their homework to prepare for the new school year after they arrive on July 1.

Two of the hires – Douglas Perley, who will become the middle school's next assistant principal after serving in the same post at Paul School in Wakefield, N.H., and incoming technology coordinator Erik Kramer, who has held the same position in Topsham – will be new to town.

But Kelly Hasson, Pond Cove School's next principal, is no stranger to Capers. Currently principal at the Hall School in Portland, Hasson spent more than 20 years at Pond Cove, where she taught grades 1 and 2, served as the school's first teacher leader, and was a 2003 state finalist for Maine Teacher of the Year. On July 1, Hasson will move into the office that Principal Tom Eisemeier has held for the past 17 years.

She is delighted about her return.

"I'm over the moon, completely over the moon," said Hasson who left Pond Cove in 2005 to become principal of the Peaks and Cliff Island elementary schools before taking the helm at the Hall School in 2007. "I have been very happy in Portland. It's been

Eberle praises all involved in joint-effort, expanded career fair

The second annual South Portland High School-South Portland/Cape Elizabeth Community Chamber Career Fair was a great success! Building on a fantastic first year, this year's fair expanded from sophomores only to sophomores and juniors – half of the high school population. Also expanded was the number and type of businesses, to include a wider range of professions.

The reviews from students and businesses alike have been overwhelmingly positive. Students were grateful to have the opportunity to think about future careers and talk with business professionals. Businesses appreciated the opportunity to meet their future employees and discuss career tracks.

As a follow-up, all students wrote at least one thank-you letter, using formal business block-style format in their English classes. An extra bonus for students was receiving responses back from some businesses. The networking, collaborating, and exchanging of information made this a real-world learning experience, creating long-lasting connections.

In addition to the almost 50 businesses that participated, special thanks go to major sponsors, Marriott at Sable Oaks and Saco and Biddeford Savings Institution. High school faculty, staff, and students, and Recreation Center employees all pitched in to help.

On behalf of the South Portland/Cape Elizabeth Community Chamber and the South Portland School Department, I would like to say to everyone who helped this all come together - job well done!

Jane Eberle

Members of the South Portland/Cape Elizabeth Community Chamber and South Portland School Department at this year's Career Fair: Laurie Inness, an executive with Inn By The Sea; State Rep. Jane Eberle, who also works as director of business partnerships for South Portland schools; Sheree Inman, a South Portland High School Career Prep teacher; and Ed Palmer, general manager of the Marriott Sable Oaks.

Concerned resident: Education about safety along Shore Road Path is imperative

I have just returned from a visit to the waterfront of Chicago, where bikers, walkers with dogs and strollers, joggers, runners, street performers and Segway group tours all share a path.

I was walking along this shore path for a portion of each of three days in a row. Today (June 9) I witnessed a young girl running her bike into a grown man on another bicycle and a comfort bike tour group trying to cut off a man biking with his infant.

The public is not safety conscious and needs help to figure out ways to travel amongst the masses of outdoor enthusiasts. We have rules of the road on the ocean and lakes with Coast Guard classes available for all people new to boating.

We do not require the same knowledge when allowing folks to share a pathway with all sorts of means of transportation.

I am still very concerned that we need to educate the public to assure the safety of the folks we are inviting to share Shore Road with the shore path. People are more concerned these days with their use of social contacts through electronic devices and less concerned about the real world they are participating in on a daily basis.

Signage used on public pathways, brochures and classroom training should all be taught to our citizens.

The young girl that hit the man on the bicycle was extremely upset, as she did not understand who had the right of way or what side of the path she was supposed to be riding on.

How about creating protective wildlife corridors?

As summer finds its way back to Cape Elizabeth, I am reminded of the number of animals killed on the streets of our town. Installing wildlife corridors that provide an escape route for wildlife would be a wonderful addition to our town.

A nice location for the first corridor culvert would be near the Alewife Brook under Route 77.

Mammals aren't going to travel down the brook to get across the road. They slowly climb the banks of the steep section of land and, horrified, they cross the road. Countless animals are unnecessarily killed on that section of road. The animals don't have a chance to safely cross as cars speed by going 50 miles per hour.

A snapping turtle is a reminder, from our past, as the size and shape has remained unchanged. Turtles cannot pass across a high-speed road, as they move according to air temperature. They are reptiles and respond at a slower pace than we do.

We love our animals in Cape Elizabeth, so why not make them a proper route to cross a busy section of town?

And while we are helping our wildlife, maybe we could lead the nation in having domestic cat owners keep cats on their own property. Dog owners have complied with new standards of leash laws and clean up, so how about having cats stay at the home where they live under some new guidelines?

State Senate candidate Millett thanks voters, wishes opponent well

Now that I am through the primary, I would like to offer my sincere thanks to all the residents of South Portland, Cape Elizabeth and Scarborough who engaged in the democratic process by voting on June 12.

It was an honor to run in the Democratic Primary for State Senate District 7 against Bryan Kaenrath.

I am thrilled with the demonstration of support for my candidacy and am excited by the opportunity to run in the general election this fall.

Thank you to the many people who have taken the time to share their thoughts with me – I greatly enjoyed the many conversations with the people of this district, hearing about their hopes and concerns and I look forward to having many more in the coming months.

Finally, my sincere thanks to Bryan for his service to our community. I wish him the very best in the future.

Rebecca Millett

encompasses Cape Elizabeth, South Portland and the eastern part of Scarborough.

Dill, who represented most of Cape Elizabeth in the state House for three terms before winning a special state Senate election last year, handily carried her home town in the primary for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. Dill, who won the nomination, got 670 votes in Cape, while former Secretary of State Matthew Dunlap received 129, state Rep. Jon Hinck, D-Portland, got 102 votes and carpenter Benjamin Pollard got 22 votes.

Six candidates ran for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate. Cape voters favored Summers, who also won statewide. In Cape, Summers got 288 votes, State Treasurer Bruce Poliquin received 166 votes, Attorney General Bill Schneider got 138, former state Senate President Richard Bennett tallied 136, state Sen. Deborah Plowman, R-Hampden, got 24 and former Lisbon Selectman Scott D'Amboise received 13 votes.

Town Clerk Debra Lane said the turnout was 25 percent of registered voters.

Land Trust seeks help from public for final fundraising for Robinson Woods II

The Cape Elizabeth Land Trust is in the final stretch of its purchase of a nearly 64-acre parcel next to Robinson Woods and is turning to the public to get past the last hurdle.

CELT so far has raised nearly $1.1 million of the $1.2 million needed from public and private donations. It needs to raise the rest by a November deadline for closing on the property, which has been dubbed Robinson Woods II.

The effort to reach the finish line is getting a substantial boost from Cape resident Paul Coulombe, who will match, dollar-for-dollar, public donations toward the final $100,000 of fundraising.

“Paul has been a great friend of the organization, and he immediately recognized the importance his gift would have by encouraging others to support this campaign,” said Chris Franklin, CELT’s executive director.

Robinson Woods II is considered the most strategically important unprotected parcel in town. It provides habitats for waterfowl and wading birds and contains nearly a mile of trails. The public currently has access to the property, but town officials and CELT believe purchasing the parcel will ensure future access and conservation and protection of the parcel.

Of the money raised so far, the town provided $350,000 toward the purchase, $175,000 came from the CELT board of directors and the organizational land reserve, $312,000 was from private foundation grants and $246,000 came from individual donations.

Maps and photos of the property are available on CELT’s website at www.cape-landtrust.org. In addition, residents can become more familiar with the property during two public walks, at 3 p.m. Friday, July 6, and at 9 a.m. Saturday, July 7.

Shore Road Path under way; expect delays

Construction of the 2.2 mile Shore Road Path began earlier this month.

The project, which will provide a path for walkers and runners from Fort Williams to the intersection of Shore Road and Route 77, is expected to take between three and four months to complete.

Traffic may be delayed or reduced to one lane while construction takes place, said Public Works Director Robert Malley.

Malley sent a letter to residents of neighborhoods along the route of the path before construction began, asking for patience while the path is built.

L.P. Murray & Sons of Cape Elizabeth submitted the low bid for construction work of $804,233 in May, below the pre-bid estimate of about $875,000.

Malley said residents with questions about the project should call him at 799-4151 or send an email to robert.malley@capeelizabeth.org.

Library tours set to show residents deficiencies Tours of Thomas Memorial Library are being offered this summer as part of the lead-up to a November vote to borrow up to $6 million to renovate and expand the library.

The tours will show residents some of the deficiencies of the current building.

The tours will be held Tuesdays from 7 to 7:30 p.m. on July 10, Aug. 14, Sept. 11 and Oct. 17; Wednesdays from 10:30 to 11 a.m. on June 27, Aug. 1, Sept. 5 and Oct. 3; Wednesdays from 2 to 2:30 p.m. on July 18, Aug. 15, Sept. 19 and Oct. 17; and Saturdays from 11 to 11:30 a.m. on July 28, Aug. 25, Sept. 22 and Oct. 27.

Strawberry Festival happening June 29-30

Summer will get off to a sweet start with the Cape Farm Alliance Strawberry Festival, which begins on June 29.

The festival starts with a lobster bake and pig roast on Friday, June 29, from 6 to 10 p.m. at Shady Oak Farm. Tickets, which are $30, must be purchased in advance at Jordan’s Farm, 21 Wells Road, or Alewife’s Brook Farm, 83 Old Ocean House Road.

The festival continues Saturday, June 30, at Maxwell’s strawberry fields on Two Lights Road, where hot-air balloon rides will be offered from 9 to 11 a.m., weather permitting.

The rest of the festival starts up at 10 a.m., with music, crafts, tractor rides and more until 4 p.m.

'Your positive leadership made our school the envy of many'

'All of the lessons we've learned, with the exception of pre-calc, will be put to use.'

— Class President Luke Sisselman

'You did things when you were at Pond Cove that are still changing the world today.'

— Valedictorian Ethan DiNinno

'So, Class of 2012, I salute you and congratulate you for that trait you have demonstrated here: playing well with others. It's a trait that will take you far and has made your class so fun to get to know...'

— Principal Jeffrey Shedd

'It can be terrifying to draw your own drawing. The coloring book might be boring but mightn't it be easier? Bottom line: That coloring book is someone else's template for life.' ... Have courage. Throw it out and draw your own.'

— Teacher Gretchen McNulty

Class of 2012 came together to gift CEHS with the model of loud, positive cheering and fan support. Your positive leadership made our school the envy of many, who wished their fans would be similarly numerous, loud and positive," Shedd said.

Alexander Enna, chosen by his classmates to speak at graduation, touched on another strength of his class: tenacity.

"If there's a group of people whose determination is strong enough to withstand the hard times, to relish the good ones and to move forward, it's this group of students," he said. "... I know that come what may, we can do it."

In his address, Class President Luke Sisselman sprinkled the heartfelt with the light.

"People say Cape Elizabeth is too competitive. It's not that we're competitive. We're just better. And I can't wait to see us all enter the world and be better," he said.

"... After all, we are the Class of 2012. We're a good class. I can't think of any class I'd rather be a part of."

Valedictorian Ethan DiNinno reminded his classmates to consider the significance of every moment.

"Our value is measured by what we do with the ordinary days. One word, one gesture, one action can have repercussions far into the future. You did things when you were at Pond Cove that are still changing the world today, long after everyone has forgotten about them," DiNinno said. "Maybe you invited someone to join your game of foursquare. Maybe you sent him away with a nasty comment instead. It may not seem like much, but thousands of little decisions like that add up to far more than the few big ones that we agonize over."

Social studies teacher Gretchen McNulty whom the class selected as faculty speaker, addressed the Cape school community for the last time in a while — she will spend next year on sabbatical, working at a school in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

McNulty urged the graduates to pursue their own paths.

"If we spend our lives coloring in someone else's drawing, because it's there, it's easy, it's what expected, we won't succeed in giving ourselves that gift of fulfillment. And, if we spend our lives letting someone else fill in our drawing, we will also surely fail," she said. "All those possibilities, all those patterns and colors and images that could have been ... all that brilliant potential that each and every one of us has, our own unique perspective on the world, that will never be."

Shedd presented eight seniors with CEHS Citizenship Awards for character (see July 18 issue of The Cape Courier).

A few hours after graduation, the graduates boarded buses for Project Graduation, a traditional post-graduation mystery trip organized by senior parents and chaperoned by parents of juniors. After bowling, dining, laser-tagging, rock-climbing, mini-golfing, zip-lining and splashing their way through the night and wee hours of Monday in Portland and Bethel, Cape Elizabeth's newest alums called it a day at 5:30 a.m.

Planners to ask council to set new limits on short-term rentals

By Wendy Derzawiec

The Planning Board will recommend that the Town Council limit all short-term rentals in Cape Elizabeth to a minimum seven days, mandate one parking space for every two persons, and have occupancy limits that are tighter on smaller properties.

At the same time, the board will recommend review of nuisance ordinances to address residents' concerns about behavior at some short-term rentals.

On July 9 the board will present its "compromise" recommendation on draft short-term rental regulations to the council, which will likely refer it to the July 31 meeting of its ordinance subcommittee.

"Legislation is all about drawing lines," said board Chairwoman Elaine Falender, following a hearing June 19. "Lines are imperfect – but we have to draw some."

Each board member voted for the recommendation, but none was convinced that zoning would protect neighborhoods from unruly behavior. Board member Liza Quinn said she was frustrated, adding that she thought short-term rentals should not be allowed at all.

"Unless we prohibit it, it's going to keep growing and it's going to be very hard to regulate," Quinn said.

Many of the 19 residents who spoke reported use of fireworks, public drunkenness and nudity at a bachelor party held at a Lawson Road rental two weekends before.

"Really, what we're after, is reducing the nuisance factor," said neighbor David Volin, who, along with others, said they thought requiring safety equipment, limited occupancy and parking was not enough.

Others likened short-term rentals to a business use in a residential zone.

"There should be no Motel 6's in our neighborhoods," said Peabbles Cove resident Joagnes Pasquarella, who said she also leases property in the area. She, like other landlords, said the economy has prompted homeowners to rent out their properties to help pay for upkeep and taxes.

Other landlords, however, cautioned against creating too many regulations, especially on larger lots.

The testimony convinced the board to reinstate in the draft stricter standards for smaller properties, recommending only eight tenants and eight guests on lots of 30,000 square feet or less.

Larger lots could have as many tenants as toilet facilities allow, but only 15 guests at a time.

Golden Ridge allowed to pay fee rather than donate open space

In other matters, the board reversed an October decision to require Sheldon Goldman of Golden Ridge LLC to donate a pedestrian easement to compensate for his development's impact on open space. Instead Goldman will pay an $8,640 fee, his preference all along.

The land donation was part of the board's approval of Goldman's request to add two lots to the three-lot Golden Ridge subdivision off Route 77. Goldman appealed to superior court, but soon after, the town's attorney sought to reconcile, said Goldman's attorney Lee Lowry.

The reversal is contingent upon Golden Ridge submitting final plans signed and sealed by Mitchell and Associates, which drafted the documents approved in October.

The firm is involved in a separate dispute over professional fees and on June 19 had prohibited resubmittal of their work.

Family Fun Day!

Not too hot, not too chilly, mostly sunny skies, a great parade with talented performers (and a few goofy marchers, too!), a visit from the Sea Dogs' Slugger in a cool car, rock climbing, games, fried dough, local art ... another great annual Family Fun Day at Fort Williams on Saturday, June 16.

It's summer! Enjoy beautiful Cape Elizabeth!

Thanks to our patients and friends for making a clear difference.

Our neighbors in need are enjoying the gift of sight thanks to some caring friends. Old eyeglasses, donated to Casco Bay EyeCare, are recycled for use here in Maine and around the world. These glasses, given free of charge, make it possible for underprivileged people to read, work and attend school. For some, this will be the only pair of glasses they ever own.

We want to thank everyone involved for making a clear difference: Our patients and neighbors for bringing their old eyeglasses to us, our opticians for cleaning, repairing and cataloging more than 400 pairs of glasses, and New Eyes for the Needy for distributing glasses to the people who need them most.

We welcome eyeglasses donations from everyone. Drop them off at any Casco Bay EyeCare office. Thank you.

Dylan Sherry, a member of Cape Elizabeth High School's Class of 2008, graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass., this month with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering and computer science.

At MIT, Sherry published research with the Computer Science and Artificial Intelligence Lab and was an Emerson Music Scholar, receiving money for private musical instruction. Sherry, who played saxophone with MIT's Festival Jazz Ensemble, recently received the Laya and Jerome B. Wiesner Student Art Award for outstanding achievement in and contributions to the arts at MIT.

This summer Dylan is working as a software engineer for Knewton, an artificial intelligence startup in New York City. He will return to MIT this fall for a master's program in engineering. He is the son of Kathy More-schi-Sherry and Sam Sherry.

Cape Elizabeth resident James W. Messerschmidt recently received the 2012 Donald B. Leiffer Outstanding Alumnus Award from San Diego State University's School of Public Affairs. The award was presented in recognition for his scholarly contributions to the fields of criminology, sociology and gender studies. Messerschmidt is chair of the University of Southern Maine's Department of Criminology.

In addition to a master's degree from SDSU, Messerschmidt holds a doctorate from the Criminology Institute at the University of Stockholm, Sweden. He teaches white-collar crime, gender and crime, political crime, and his research interests focus on the interrelation of gender, race, class, and crime. He received the 2010-2011 USM Women and Gender Studies MacPherson Outstanding Feminist Faculty Award. He is the author of 10 books, including, most recently, "Gender, Heterosexuality, and Youth Violence: The Struggle for Recognition."

Cape Elizabeth resident Nathan Weatherbie was named to the spring-semester dean's list at Lock Haven University in Lock Haven, Pa., where he is studying history.

Leif Ekelund, a 1999 graduate of Cape Elizabeth High School who received a master of fine arts degree in 2010 from the Academy of Art University in San Francisco, is a concept artist at SIXITS Studios Inc., a new-media production company in Novato, Calif., that specializes in mobile gaming and apps as well as social gaming for Facebook. The son of David and Bonnie Ekelund of Geldert Lane, he is a 2004 graduate of the University of Vermont in Burlington. At the Academy of Art University, he majored in visual effects with a focus on digital matte painting.

Rebecca Jordan Strout was named to the spring semester dean's list at Colby-Sawyer College in New London, N.H. A member of the Class of 2015, she is majoring in graphic design.

Cape Elizabeth resident Mark D. Diehl will read from his recently released novel, "Vida Nocturna," at 6 p.m. on Thursday, July 12, in the Freeport Community Library's community room. Diehl, who has spoken at the University of Chicago and to members of the Freeport Creative Arts Initiative about the modern shift away from corporate publishing, is an "adamant critic" of "traditional" publishing.

"The industry judges the merit of an author's work solely on the basis of its potential profitability, causing books to chase the market in a death spiral of creativity," Diehl states in a press release.

Set in the 1980s, "Vida Nocturna" follows Sara, a social-phobic college freshman who fantasizes that her spooky new friends are vampires but discovers that there is nothing supernatural about real horror. By the time she realizes that they are cocaine addicts, she has been become addicted herself.

Contact Diehl at dark_mark@me.com or 233-1956 for more information.

Gregg H. Ginn, an attorney at Verrill Dana in Portland who specializes in employee benefits and compensation law, received a high ranking in the 2012 Chambers USA guide, published by London-based Chambers & Partners, which conducts interviews with clients to assess the reputations and expertise of business lawyers across the United States.

Girl Scouts go a-courting

Taking a break from painting foursquare courts at Cape Elizabeth Middle School earlier this month are Girl Scouts from Cape Elizabeth's Troop 1530, left to right, Anna Stevens; Cheyenne Reed; Alison Ingalls; Lisa Stevens; troop leader; Christina Pinette and Ashlyn Nestor. The troop also plans to supply the school with balls and a bin for storage.

Coastal Rehab, which provides physical, occupational and speech therapy services in homes, retirement communities and at a Cape clinic at 2 Davis Lane, will add satellite clinics at two retirement communities: Fallbrook Woods in Portland and Ocean View in Falmouth. Scarborough resident Nathalie Descheneaux opened the Cape clinic a year ago.

Cape Elizabeth resident Karyn Barrett, a member of the Class of 2015 at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., won the Lisa P. Nestor Chemical Rubber Co. Award this spring. The award is given to first-year chemistry students for outstanding achievement in general chemistry. A 2011 Cape Elizabeth High School graduate, Barrett is the daughter of Dan and Debbie Barrett.

Teams to play 19th-century baseball on June 30

The Maine Historical Society will host a 19th-century baseball game on Saturday, June 30, at the Parade Grounds at Fort Williams Park. The program, which will be free and open to the public, will run from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Essex Baseball Organization, based in Newbury, Mass., will play two nine-inning games against the Dirigo Baseball Club of Augusta. Players, who will wear period uniforms, will play "town ball" baseball, played by rules and customs of the 1800s, on an open field.

The Essex Baseball Organization has an outreach program that focuses on education, entertainment and engagement.

"We're thrilled to bring them to Maine," said Maine Historical Society Executive Director Steve Bromage, a Cape resident. "This will be a great way for people to experience a little bit of history and enjoy a day in the park."

Games will be played at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Between games, ESBO members will talk about baseball in the 1800s, and kids will have the opportunity to interact with the players and ask questions. ESBO members also will discuss vintage baseball terminology, including "cloud hunter" (fly ball); "ace" (home run); and "dew drop" (slow pitch).

Go to www.mainememory.net and search for "baseball" for information about the history of baseball in Maine.

"The event is designed for the enjoyment of Little Leaguers, baseball enthusiasts, history buffs, casual park visitors, and the general public," said Deborah Tillman Stone of MHS.

Attendees are encouraged to bring a picnic. The event is sponsored by Investment Management and Consulting Group, Reliable Networks, Port Printing Solutions, John Babin and Jennifer DeSena of Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage, Cape Elizabeth Little League, and the Portland Sea Dogs.

Call 774-1822 for more information.

Maine Home + Design Garden Tour on July 14

Community members will have a chance to tour private gardens in town from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 14, during the second annual Maine Home + Design Garden Tour.

Proceeds raised from the tour will benefit the Fort Williams Charitable Foundation's Arboretum at Fort Williams Park, a series of garden landscapes that are being installed in Fort Williams.

The first landscape, the "Cliffside" site, currently being installed, will be included on the tour along with private gardens.

Tickets, $20 until July 11 when they go up to $25, are available in Cape Elizabeth at the IGA and at Jordan's Farm and at businesses in neighboring communities. Go to www.fortwilliams.org and click on "The Arboretum at Fort Williams" link for more information.

Cape Garden Club to meet July 11 at Scarborough home

The Cape Elizabeth Garden Club will meet on July 11 at the home of Scarborough resident Nancy Hunter. Newly elected president Nona Geyerhahn will open the meeting at 1 p.m., and then members will have an opportunity to view Hunter's garden.

Club members just started to work on the gardens at the Portland Head Light and Thomas Memorial Library. The club welcomes new members.

Call Membership Chair Betty Montpelier at 799-0229 for more information about the July 11 meeting or the club.

Community Services plans July 19 cruise to Bailey Island

Lighthouses, forts, and turn-of-the-century summer colonies will be featured on a Casco Bay Lines cruise to Bailey Island set for Thursday, July 19.

The excursion, offered through Cape Elizabeth Community Services, will take tripgoers to Bailey Island for two hours. Group members can pack their own picnic lunches or eat at Cook's Lobster House.

The group will depart from behind the Cape Elizabeth Community Center at 9 a.m. The cost, $29, will cover transportation.

Contact Jen DeRice, Community Services' new adult program coordinator, at 799-2868 for more information or to register.

Work session, free yoga planned at Arboretum

Members of the Arboretum at Fort Williams Committee, who are working to install a series of garden landscapes at the Fort, will hold a volunteer work session from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 7. The group will clear invasive plants.

Volunteers are asked to bring gloves and tools but leave children and dogs at home. The event will occur rain or shine, and group members should meet at the Arboretum's Cliffside site, located at the head of the Cliff Walk path opposite the park's parade grounds parking area.

Contact volunteer coordinator Janet Villiotte at volunteer@arboretumatfortwilliams.org, for more information.

Two yoga sessions will be offered Tuesday mornings from June 19 to Sept. 18 at the Cliffside site. The classes, planned at 6:30-7:30 a.m. and 8-9 a.m., will be open to the public by voluntary donation. No advance registration or previous yoga experience is necessary for the class, which is geared to beginners and intermediate yoga practitioners.

Participants should bring yoga mats. Classes will be held weather permitting. Contact Maria Gallace at 799-3293 or maria@maine.rr.com about weather cancellations or other information. Weather decisions will be made by 5 a.m. on class days.

Celebrate Life! walk set for Saturday, July 14

Cape Elizabeth resident Sue L'Hommedieu is organizing a "Celebrate Life!" walk on Saturday, July 14. Sponsored by the Maine Right to Life committee, the walk is open to all.

Participants in the two-mile walk will meet at 9 a.m. at Holy Cross Church in South Portland. Proceeds will benefit unborn babies and their mothers. People who don't walk can sponsor a walker.

Contact Sue L'Hommedieu at 799-2337 or wethree@maine.rr.com for information

Historical society soon to open on Saturdays

Starting Saturday, July 7, the Cape Elizabeth Historical Preservation Society will be open Saturdays in addition to the society's traditional Thursday morning hours.

Summer hours will run from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays, and from 9 a.m. to noon on Thursdays. CEHPS is located in the basement of the Thomas Memorial Library.

In May, the society elected new officers.

Wayne Brooking, Jr.; is now president, and Dorothy Higgins is vice president. Lois Morrill continues as recording secretary, Jane Beck as corresponding secretary, and Wayne Brooking, Sr., as treasurer.

The society will not host programs this summer but members plan a full schedule of programs starting in September.

Singer/songwriter Jud Caswell will perform July 17 on the library's front lawn and conduct folk music workshops on July 3, 10 and 17.

Tune in Tuesdays for family concert, folk music workshops

The library will offer a three-part workshop with award-winning singer/songwriter Jud Caswell in July.

Children ages 4 to 8 will join Caswell for "Folk Music Hour" on three Tuesdays in July. Kids can sing along with songs, write their own words and play along with a collection of percussion instruments, including banjo, guitar, mandolin and ukulele, and record new songs during the sessions, set for 3-4 p.m. on July 3, 10 and 17.

Caswell also will perform in a front lawn concert at 6:30 p.m. on July 17.

Registration for the workshop sessions is required (attendance at all three sessions is desired, but not mandatory.)

Register at ThomasMemorialLibrary.org, or stop by the library.

Reading program for adults under way

The library's first-ever summer reading program for adults is under way. Adults who participate receive a punch-card bookmark.

Each week, participants who read or listen to a book or audiobook will have their card punched and will be entered into a weekly drawing for a gift certificate donated by a Cape Elizabeth business or restaurant, and also be entered into a grand-prize drawing that will take place at the end of the summer.

Stop by the library or go to ThomasMemorialLibrary.org to register and for details.

Craft programs aimed at school-aged kids

The library will offer special programs this summer for school-aged kids focusing on the summer reading program themes of nighttime and dreaming.

The first program for 5- to 8-year-olds in a series called "Follow Your Dreams" will take place at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, July 11, and will feature stories about fireflies and a glowing firefly craft.

For 9- to 12-year-olds, the series is called "Dream Makers: Cool Crafts." The first program in the series will take place at 3 p.m. Wednesday, July 18, and will focus on Native American Night Sky Lore, which will include storytelling and a dream catcher craft.

Registration for the programs is required to ensure that there will be enough materials available. Register online or call or stop by the library. Details about all the programs in both series also are available on the library's website.

Popular Tricky Britches bluegrass band returns on July 10

Last year's outdoor concert featuring Tricky Britches got cut short by a sudden rain storm. The Portland-based bluegrass band is back for another go, at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 10. Library workers suggest bringing a picnic dinner for this free community event.

The five members of Tricky Britches play banjo, fiddle, bass, guitar, mandolin and harmonica and bring enthusiasm to traditional as well as original bluegrass tunes.

The band has traveled to Europe, playing in such diverse places as the street corners of Venice, Italy, and pubs in Arklow, Ireland.

Tricky Britches currently has two CDs, "Hop on a Train" and "Hard Fought Day." Both are available to be borrowed at the library. Photos, music samples and videos of the band in action are available at ThomasMemorialLibrary.org.

Kids can go batty at library on July 12

Bat enthusiast Jerry Schneider will present "The Wonderful World of Bats" for children ages 6 and up at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, July 12 in the library's Community Room. Younger children are welcome with an adult.

Schneider will introduce children to local and tropical bats through a slideshow and recorded bat calls, dispelling stereotypes and sparking interest in these unusual and beneficial creatures.

Participants also can create a T-shirt with a cool bat design. Children should bring a blank white or pastel-colored T-shirt or purchase one at the program for $4.

If the weather is nice, the T-shirt craft will take place in the library's backyard behind the Community Room.

Register online or call or stop by the library. Details, and links to resources about bats, also can be found on the library's website: ThomasMemorialLibrary.org.

"My friend says we should be sleeping on organic mattresses, but I'm not sure why."

Your friend is right. The modern family should be sleeping on organic mattresses because the typical mattress you buy contains:

- Polyurethane
- Stain-resistant and flame-retardant chemicals
- Cotton grown with pesticides
- Latex made from petroleum

Guess how many of those are in an organic mattress? Zero. And ... it's hypoallergenic.

A 2011-2012 Cape Courier series by Ellen Van Fleet follows the development of the Civil War through the eyes of people who lived in Cape Elizabeth 150 years ago. Cape Elizabeth author Paul J. Ledman's book, "A Maine Town Responds," is the main guide. Small entries in the Courier capture the news and concerns as events unfolding outside of Cape Elizabeth thrust their way into the local consciousness. News items from the Portland Transcript are printed verbatim.

June 28, 1862 – Gen. McDowell was thrown from his horse last week and severely injured, but is now recovering. [Portland Transcript]

The 12th and 13th Maine regiments form part of the garrison at New Orleans. The troops bivouac in the streets and squares of the city. [Portland Transcript]

Death from Smoker's Cancer – The Salem Observer speaks of a case of death by cancer in the mouth, caused by excessive smoking. [Portland Transcript]

The Irish in the War – The bravery and patriotism displayed by our Irish fellow citizens in this war are worth of all praise. A Union soldier just returned from a Southern prison said to us the other day, "I don't want to hear anything said against the Irish after this. In devotion to the Union they are not excelled by our native citizens." They have earned the right to be Americans and have won the thanks of all true patriots. [Portland Transcript]

Pressed into Service – Gen. McClellan has pressed the reporters into digging trenches, and special orders have been issued that every civilian is to be employed in such labor, and in time of battle, is to fight the enemy. The quill drivers will now have an opportunity to show that the pen is mightier than the sword. [Portland Transcript]

The Tax Bill has at last passed both Houses of Congress, to take effect on the 1st of August. The tax on piano-fortes, watches and dogs was stricken out. Incomes between $600 and $1000 are taxed 3 percent; over $1000 5 percent on all over $600. [Portland Transcript]

We Portlanders are growing quite epicurean in our tastes. Turtles and frogs are served up at our eating saloons, and we expect soon to hear of the introduction of that delicate French dish, boiled snails. At one of our eating saloons live frogs are kept in a tank, ready to be served up to customers with nice tastes. [Portland Transcript]

Flower stealers are reminded that the fine for taking plants or flowers from any of the cemeteries is $10 and the cost of prosecution. [Portland Transcript]

A Detachment of the 17th U.S. Regiment marched into town from Fort Preble on Tuesday afternoon, the excellent music of their band and the soldierly bearing of the men adding much to the lively stir of the streets. [Portland Transcript]

July 5, 1862 – A Good Exchange: Gen McClellan has stopped the whiskey ration and furnishes his troops with hot coffee after reveille. [Portland Transcript]

President Lincoln Takes a

Civil War soldiers transport the wounded to a field hospital in this drawing copied from "1899 Portfolio of War and Nation; the Civil War in the United States."

Trip –The President of these dis-United States is not a man to stand on etiquette or ceremony. He surprised the country last week by paying a flying visit to Gen. Scott at West Point and when called on to make a speech told the expectant people that, in view of the Secretary of War's strict censorship of the press it wouldn't do for him to blab. Of course, all sorts of rumors were afloat as to the object of his visit. But nothing certain is known of the nature of his conference with the veteran general. The subsequent appointment of Gen. Pope to the command of the forces in the Shenandoah Valley is supposed, however, to be one result of it. [Portland Transcript]

Colonel Lowe's balloon, yesterday, was stationed near Gaines' Mills, on the right centre of the Federal line and within six miles of Richmond. It was in the air the whole day, and in the few hours it ascended, some 30 or 40 army officers observed the position of the enemy's troops from the elevated point of view it afforded. The balloon, which is held to the ground by a strong cord a thousand feet in length, of course ascends to that distance above the

'D@namites' attend laptop conference at UMO

Cape Elizabeth Middle School eighth-graders in Susan Dana's advisory class attended the Maine Learning Technology Initiative Conference last month at the University of Maine at Orono through a grant funded by the nonprofit Cape Elizabeth Education Foundation. At the conference, Maine seventh- and eighth-graders heard from experts about how to use laptops to enhance learning. Dana's students, who named themselves the "D@namites" because "they said the '@' looks techie," Dana said, worked on a year-long project to become iMovie experts. The students are, left to right, front row, Jimmy Salerno, Miles Dorrance, Sarah O'Connor, Maddie Murphy, Tori Diaz, Maisie Perkins, Bryce Hewitt; back row, Lydia Brenneman, Lily Pillsbury, George Astor, Abaseen Shir, Henry Shroder and Tommy Brett.

Last call for CEHS graduates' plans

Recent high school graduates and parents who want to run postgrad plans in the July 18 issue of The Cape Courier should send the graduate's name, parents' names, and the graduate's plans, including the location of the college or postgrad activity, to Wendy Keeler at communityeditor@capecourier.com. Only information sent by seniors or parents will be accepted.

Young composters dig in with gusto

Pond Cove School third-graders got their hands dirty – with permission – earlier this month when members of Cape Elizabeth High School's Environmental Club gave them a composting lesson. In addition to educational outreach, club members, who won an award last year for their contributions to preserving local ecology, developed and now run a waste-sorting system in the CEHS cafeteria, go on camping trips and work throughout the school year to promote environmental causes.

Box Tops program raises $3,300 for two schools

Cape Elizabeth students, community members and school employees raised $3,300 this year for Pond Cove and Cape Elizabeth Middle schools through the Box Tops for Education program, in which people clip 10-cent coupons from grocery items and submit them to the schools.

The coupons brought in $2,100 for Pond Cove and $1,200 for the middle school. Both schools will use the money to fund grants. "Please continue to collect Box Tops over the summer to help keep the schools' numbers strong for the fall," program coordinator Joanne Sullivan said.

Coupons can be dropped off in bins in the schools' main lobbies, IGA, Thomas Memorial Library, the Swap Shop and the Community Center.

A percentage of purchases at various online stores at www.btfe.com also will go to the two schools. Contact Sullivan at jsull@maine.rr.com for more information.

School Board Chair Mary Townsend, far left, lauded retiring Cape Elizabeth school employees, who, combined, have "centuries" of experience in Cape Elizabeth, Townsend said at the June 12 School Board meeting. Left to right, after Townsend, the employees are Cape Elizabeth High School social studies teacher Dwight Ely, CEHS math teacher Charlotte Hanna, Pond Cove teacher Janet Amberger, Cape Elizabeth Middle School teacher Sally Connolly, district technology coordinator Gary Lanoie, and Pond Cove Principal Tom Eismeier. Karen Allen, who recently retired from Community Services, where she was coordinator of adult programs, is missing from the photograph.

Banishing the invaders

Students and adult volunteers remove invasive plants at Fort Williams this month during Cape Elizabeth Middle School's annual eighth-grade community service trail project. This year, students worked with members of the Cape Elizabeth Land Trust and the Fort Williams Foundation at the Arboretum at Fort Williams, a series of garden landscapes being installed at the Fort. "This was a great project because it tied in nicely with part of their science curriculum where they studied invasive species," CELT member Suzanne McGinn said.

Cape Challenge!

Photos by Deborah Glidden

At top, despite rainy weather, the inaugural Cape Challenge on June 3 drew 310 runners in the 5-kilometer race. Below, 102 young runners participated in the event's one-mile dash. Clayton Conrad won the 5K with a time of 16:04, and Noelle Webster was the top woman runner with a time of 21:06. Winners of the one-mile dash for runners 12 years old and younger were Harry Homans, who did it in 6:52, and Colette Kinkade, who finished in 7 minutes. A joint effort of the three Cape Elizabeth school parent associations, the event netted more than $7,000 for the schools. Bostwick & Co. Realty was the race's main sponsor.

REDUCED PREMIUMS ON CERTAIN FHA REFINANCES

If you have an FHA loan that closed before May 31, 2009, you may be able to take advantage of lower mortgage insurance premiums when you refinance.

HUD reduced the mortgage insurance premiums on FHA-streamlined refinances endorsed before June 1, 2009. However, an "endorsed" or insured date is usually a few months later than your closing date. A streamlined refinance does not require an appraisal or any income verification but allows you to take advantage of today's lower interest rates without paying a higher mortgage insurance premium.

To determine when a mortgage was endorsed by HUD, contact a local mortgage originator.

Soccer players to compete against top in region

Cape Elizabeth soccer players Montana Braxton, Mariah Deschino, Connor Thoreck and Owen Thoreck and their state-cup-winning premier league soccer teams will represent the state of Maine in the U.S. Youth Soccer Region 1 Championships June 28-July 3 in Lancaster, Pa.

Braxton's under-14 Velocity soccer club team, Deschino's U13 Seacoast United club team and the Thorecks' U13 MCU Portland Phoenix team won state championships in their age divisions this spring, qualifying them for the tournament, which will include U12 to U19 teams from Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

Cape field hockey players' team shines

A Maine field hockey club team that includes Cape Elizabeth players Jane Coffrin and Bella Robinson took home highest honors from the Limelight College Field Hockey Showcase held June 2 and 3 at Bentley University in Waltham, Mass.

Coffrin's and Robinson's team, the Katakadin Field Hockey Club, competed against players from all over New England, and as far south as New York and Pennsylvania, ending the competition with a 7-0-0 record.

Robinson, who graduated on June 10 from Cape Elizabeth High School, will play field hockey next year at Keene State College in New Hampshire. Coffrin just finished her junior year at CEHS.

a wonderful seven years, and I have learned so much as a school leader. To me the opportunity to return to Pond Cove feels like coming home.”

A Portland resident, Hasson got a bachelor's degree in child development in 1981 from the University of Maine at Orono and started her career in Rockport as a second-grade teacher. From 1983 to 1984, she was director and head teacher of the Children's Center nursery school at Cape Elizabeth High School.

From there she moved to Pond Cove, where she taught grades 1 and 2 until 2003 and served as teacher leader from 2003 to 2005, with a sabbatical in 1995 to earn a master's degree in language and literacy from Harvard University's Graduate School of Education in Cambridge, Mass. Hasson also holds a certificate of advanced study in educational leadership from the University of Maine at Orono.

Perley, Cape Elizabeth Middle School's next assistant principal, has 11 years of experience as an administrator. Since 2009, he has held the same position at the Paul School, which serves 430 students in kindergarten through grade 8 in Wakefield, N.H.

From 2008-2009, he was principal at the Easter Seals/Harbor Schools, Inc., special education high school in Amesbury, Mass., and for seven years before that he served as assistant principal and athletic director at the Middle School of the Kennebunks.

Perley also spent a decade as a social worker at Wells Junior High School, where he worked from 1991 to 2001. He holds a bachelor of art degree in psychology from Bates College in Lewiston and a master of science degree in education from the University of Southern Maine.

Perley will succeed John Casey, who started teaching at CEMS in 1982 and has served as assistant principal for the past 10 years. Casey will stay on at CEMS to teach math.

Kramer, the district's next technology coordinator, has held a similar position in the Topsham school district since 2007. Like Gary Lanoie, who will step down June 30 after 37 years in Cape Elizabeth and 15 as technology coordinator, Kramer has teaching experience.

From 2006-2007, he taught math at Casco Bay High School in Portland, and from 2002 to 2006 he taught math and Japanese at Global Connections High School in SeaTac, Wash. Kramer taught English at Taishi Senior High School in Hyogo-ken, Japan, from 1999-2001.

After earning a bachelor's degree in computer science and math from the University of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Wash., Kramer got a master's degree in education from Seattle Pacific University in Seattle.

When The Cape Courier went to press June 22, the School Department was interviewing applicants for the Community Services director's position.

Janet Hoskin, who has worked for Community Services for 24 years and has served as director since 2008, will step down from the job and move over to Facilities and Transportation, where she will be administrative assistant to Director Greg Marles.

Cape Elizabeth school officials are excited about the new hires.

“If we have learned anything from our first year with our new superintendent, it's to embrace change and that fresh faces will provide us with new and exciting opportunities and perspectives to continue to move our district forward,” School Board Chair Mary Townsend said.

Councilor Jim Walsh also proposed that the words “up to” be added before $6 million. He was concerned voters would think that the town was locked into the $6 million amount. He noted that efforts to reduce the estimated $8 million project cost may result in a lower amount needed from the town.

Both changes were unanimously agreed to by the council.

Mandatory citizen votes proposed

The council is considering a proposal that citizen votes be made automatic on future capital projects costing over $1 million.

Councilors want to hear from the public on the idea at its July meeting.

The proposal for mandatory townwide referenda would require an amendment to the town charter.

Currently, referenda on most major capital projects are optional and are set at the Town Council's discretion.

A provision currently in the charter allows that 10 percent of registered voters (or about 700 signers) may petition for a vote to override an action by the council on expenditures amounting to .05 percent of the property valuation (or about $855,000 by today's values).

The proposed charter amendment would require a “yes” vote by the public before the project could proceed.

Capital improvements arising from a fire or other such loss, or required by the federal or state mandate would be exempt.

After the July public hearing, the council may decide to also send the proposed charter amendment to the voters on Nov. 6.

Passing of Ken Maxwell noted

Town Manager McGovern noted with sadness the passing of Ken Maxwell, the patriarch of the Maxwell family who helped establish Maxwell Family Farm. Maxwell and Jordan farms form the heart of the Cape Elizabeth farm community.

McGovern noted Maxwell's over 50 years of volunteer service to Cape Fire and Rescue. Ken and his wife Elsie have been active in the community for many years.
